EXECUTING

1. Achiever®

What Is Achiever?

Achievers have a constant need for attainment. They have an internal fire burning inside them. It pushes them to do and achieve more. People with strong Achiever talents feel as if every day starts at zero. By the end of the day, they must accomplish something meaningful to feel good about themselves. And “every day” means every single day: workdays, weekends, holidays and even vacations. If the day passes without some form of achievement, no matter how small, Achievers feel dissatisfied. After finishing a challenging project, they rarely seek with a reward of a rest or an easy assignment. While they appreciate recognition for past achievements, their motivation lies in striving toward the next goal on the horizon.

Why Your Achiever Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

AchieverContext*Focus*Strategic*Learner

It's very likely that you often catch yourself working hard to ease the anxieties of others. When you can show them a way to reach their goals, most individuals behave much more reasonably and much less emotionally.

Because of your strengths, you are drawn to start-up activities. Why? They give you an opportunity to accomplish something no one else has done. You are likely to push yourself to reach goals. You are hardwired to double check your work to verify that everything is going as planned. You are equally concerned that every person and piece of equipment is in its assigned location.

By nature, you are quite open and transparent with individuals or groups. The level of trust you have for a person dictates how much you reveal about your personal history, innermost thoughts, or deepest feelings.

Driven by your talents, you exhibit an aptitude for overcoming difficulties. You are frequently called upon to identify problems and then make needed repairs or implement appropriate solutions. You work so diligently that you ignore all kinds of distractions.

Chances are good that you probably feel exhilarated when the demands of work keep you physically active. You are known for your capacity to labor longer and harder than many people can.

How Achiever Blends With Your Other Top Five Strengths

ACHIEVER + CONTEXT

Your clear memory of how you did something in the past enables you to replicate your performance and possibly improve on it.

ACHIEVER + FOCUS

Your goal orientation gives direction to your diligence and helps you prioritize the tasks that you need to accomplish first.

ACHIEVER + STRATEGIC

If at first you don't succeed, you try again. If you try again and still don't succeed, you consider your options and try one.

ACHIEVER + LEARNER

When you're working on a task, you really want to get it done. When you're exposed to something new, you really want to understand it.

Apply Your Achiever to Succeed

Use a scoring system to keep track of all achievements.

- ☐ Display metrics that matter in a place where you can see them often. The visual measurement of your productivity will encourage you to keep making progress toward your goals.
- ☐ Put personal achievements on your scoring system. This will help you direct your busy energy toward family and friends and work.

STRATEGIC THINKING

2. Context®

What Is Context?

Perspective and background are important for people with strong Context talents. They value the retrospective viewpoint because they believe that is where the answers lie. They look back to understand the present. From the past, they can discern blueprints for the future. People with dominant Context talents might feel disoriented when they can't see patterns stemming from prior events. Others may become impatient with them as they strive to understand the history of a given situation. But this historical context gives them confidence in their decisions.

Why Your Context Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

AchieverContext*Focus*Strategic*Learner

Instinctively, you prefer to think about the past with historians rather than daydream about the future. You examine the historic record with their assistance. In the process, you probably gain a clearer understanding of present circumstances.

Chances are good that you seek to understand how yesterday's successes and failures influence today's decisions because you know that you can learn much from examining the past.

It's very likely that you delve into historic events and study the actions of major and minor figures. You seek to understand why and how things happened as well as why individuals made the choices they did. These insights about the past do more than arouse your interest and feed your curiosity. They also cause you to consider what you can do better or more perfectly today.

By nature, you routinely ask lots of questions when you are meeting someone for the first time. Your curiosity about and interest in someone's past often helps you put your relationship with the person into a framework that makes sense.

Driven by your talents, you often seek the company of historically astute individuals. You value the clarity of their thinking about past events. They probably help you evaluate the roles of principal figures in history.

How Context Blends With Your Other Top Five Strengths

CONTEXT + ACHIEVER

Your clear memory of how you did something in the past enables you to replicate your performance and possibly improve on it.

CONTEXT + FOCUS

By taking time to consider prior events and experiences, you get better at prioritizing activities and concentrating on outcomes.

CONTEXT + STRATEGIC

While some only consider possibilities they can imagine, you embrace possibilities you remember from the past.

CONTEXT + LEARNER

Because you tend to retain what you study, academic success often comes easy for you. Your memory and ability to achieve help.

Apply Your Context to Succeed

- ☐ Find a mentor with an extensive history in your area of interest. Talking with this person and listening to their experiences will likely inspire you and help you prepare for the future.
- ☐ Communicate what the future holds by analyzing past experiences. Your passion for history can give great insights into where you and those around you are going in the future.

3. Focus®

What Is Focus?

People with strong Focus talents prioritize and then take action. They set goals that serve as their compass, helping them determine priorities and make alterations when needed to get back on course. Their Focus is powerful because it forces them to filter; they instinctively evaluate each action before taking it to decide whether it will help them reach their goal. In the end, strong Focus talents push them to be efficient. They are extremely valuable team members because their single-mindedness enhances the speed and quality of their performance and keeps the team on track.

Why Your Focus Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Achiever	Context	Focus	Strategic	Learner
----------	---------	-------	-----------	---------

Because of your strengths, you periodically document goals that can lead you to a future of your own choosing. Perhaps you leave less to chance when you outline your aims and push yourself to reach each one.

Driven by your talents, you probably feel in sync with life once you have clarified either your own or someone else’s performance objectives. Sometimes you enjoy talking with certain types of people who seem to be aware of their personal or professional goals.

It’s very likely that you usually feel in sync with life once you have helped clarify either your own or someone else’s performance objectives. You enjoy talking with people who are keenly aware of their personal and professional goals.

By nature, you yearn to get ahead. You strive to acquire many of the status symbols and special privileges that come with rank, title, or position.

Chances are good that you bring an objective voice to goal-setting meetings. You emphasize facts to clarify key points. You notice how information becomes distorted when personal agendas or emotions cloud people’s judgment. You enter these sessions with one intention — to give equal consideration to the objectives each person proposes.

FOCUS + ACHIEVER

Your goal orientation gives direction to your diligence and helps you prioritize the tasks that you need to accomplish first.

FOCUS + CONTEXT

By taking time to consider prior events and experiences, you get better at prioritizing activities and concentrating on outcomes.

FOCUS + STRATEGIC

Your mind is open to considering multiple options. But once you have chosen an option, those you have not chosen become invisible to you.

FOCUS + LEARNER

In many cases, your interests shape your intentions. But there are also times when your intentions shape your interests.

Apply Your Focus to Succeed

Decide what you must do, prioritize and then act.

- ☐ Say no to projects or tasks that do not align with your end goal. While you can't always say no, when you can, it will help you concentrate on your most important priorities.
- ☐ Trust your internal compass to make necessary adjustments as you work toward a goal. You have an instinct that ensures things will not distract you as you work to achieve the desired outcome.

STRATEGIC THINKING

4. Strategic®

What Is Strategic?

People with strong Strategic talents can sort through the clutter to find the best route. You can't teach this skill. It is a distinct way of thinking — a unique perspective on the world at large. This outlook allows them to see patterns where others see complexity. Mindful of these patterns, they envision alternative scenarios, always asking, "What if this happened?" This recurring question helps them see, plan and prepare for future situations. They see a way when others assume there is no way. Armed with this strategy, they move forward.

Why Your Strategic Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

AchieverContext*Focus*Strategic*Learner

By nature, you sometimes delve into opportunities or situations to find clues for handling them. Piecing together patterns of cause and effect from past or current events sometimes allows you to propose alternate routes to a particular goal. Perhaps few things take you by surprise. Why? You might study several options or craft innovative solutions that short-circuit problems before they arise.

Driven by your talents, you always prepare for the worst — not because you think the worst will happen, but because you believe that preparing for the worst prevents it from happening.

Instinctively, you may have acquired expertise in specific areas. Occasionally you spend time considering several courses of action before choosing one. Perhaps you invent original or innovative techniques for dealing with expected or unexpected challenges. Maybe you use the same approach to take advantage of promising opportunities.

It's very likely that you may be able to simply and objectively summarize the key points from complex group discussions. In doing so, you might intend to give everyone an opportunity to understand and therefore contribute their own thoughts.

Chances are good that you can design innovative plans. You probably raise issues and identify recurring obstacles as you generate tactical options. Problems and possible solutions become apparent to you. Once you outline action steps, you quickly execute them one by one. You refuse to waste time questioning your ideas after everything has been set into motion.

While some only consider possibilities they can imagine, you embrace possibilities you remember from the past.

STRATEGIC + FOCUS

Your mind is open to considering multiple options. But once you have chosen an option, those you have not chosen become invisible to you.

STRATEGIC + LEARNER

Your willingness to embrace new experiences or information enhances your ability to generate a wide range of possible options.

Apply Your Strategic to Succeed

Think ahead to gain perspective.

- ☐ Take time to fully plan your path forward. While you easily see patterns where others see complexity, it is important to make time to envision these alternative scenarios.
- ☐ Practice explaining your decision-making process before talking with others. Doing this ensures people know you have considered different options and opinions to inform your decision.

STRATEGIC THINKING

5. Learner®

What Is Learner?

People with strong Learner talents constantly strive to learn and improve. The process of learning is just as important to them as the knowledge they gain. The steady and deliberate journey from ignorance to competence energizes Learners. The thrill of learning new facts, beginning a new subject and mastering an important skill excites people with dominant Learner talents. Learning builds these people's confidence. Having Learner as a dominant theme does not necessarily motivate someone to become a subject-matter expert or strive for the respect that accompanies earning a professional or academic credential. The outcome of learning is less significant than the "getting there."

Driven by your talents, you spend considerable time examining exactly why something has gone wrong. Whenever you experience a personal or professional loss, make a mistake, or experience failure, you tend to investigate. You are likely to be restless until you have answers to all your basic questions: What? How? When? Where? Who? Why?

Because of your strengths, you frequently promise yourself to do something better than you did it the last time. As you examine the consequences of your words and deeds, you usually recognize ways you could perform a similar task or problem the next time with a higher degree of knowledge or skill. Simply put: You are determined to gain insights from your mistakes so you do not repeat them.

By nature, you think systematically to identify patterns in processes, data, relationships, agendas, timelines, or contracts. You see distinct links between a factor and its consequence, a decision and its result, or an action and its reaction. People trust you to make informed and reasonable choices.

Chances are good that you have little difficulty giving intense effort to projects, problems, or opportunities that capture and keep your attention.

Instinctively, you are the person people turn to for insights about why certain things happened. You piece together events and unravel problems. You make discoveries and make sense of things for yourself and others.

How Learner Blends With Your Other Top Five Strengths

LEARNER + ACHIEVER

When you're working on a task, you really want to get it done. When you're exposed to something new, you really want to understand it.

LEARNER + CONTEXT

Because you tend to retain what you study, academic success often comes easy for you. Your memory and ability to achieve help.

LEARNER + FOCUS

In many cases, your interests shape your intentions. But there are also times when your intentions shape your interests.

LEARNER + STRATEGIC

Your willingness to embrace new experiences or information enhances your ability to generate a wide range of possible options.

Apply Your Learner to Succeed

Develop expertise in areas that interest you the most.

- ☐ Regularly study new topics and skills. Challenge yourself to learn about complex ideas, programs or experiences others might not want to explore.
- ☐ Refine how you develop your expertise. For example, you might learn best by beginning a new project; if so, find new tasks or projects to start. Or you might learn best by teaching; if so, find ways to present to others.
